Our Children and youth are valuable to us...

We consider our children and youth the future of the church and have the potential to be the future generation of leaders in the church. Investing in them is crucial for creating a brighter world for generations to come. When a strong foundation of worship, fellowship, and Christian education is set from a young age, it not only sets them on the right path but also encourages them to be productive members of society and share their gifts with the world.

Moreover, a Children and Youth Ministry that is both strong and supportive is open to everyone, regardless of their family situation or background. This helps all kids to have a safe space where they are taught good values and compassion, even if that is something that's typically missing at home. God loves us all and would want us to bring children into this world properly—with love and guidance.
